Dear Mr. Jones:

This correspondence is in response to your Request for Additional Information (RFAI) for the above referenced report.

Regarding identification of individual contributors the RNC adheres to the three-fold process required by the FEC. When a contribution from an individual does not include all of the requested information, the RNC mails a notice to the contributor requesting the missing information. When the contributor responds the RNC includes the information in our subsequent report as prescribed by FEC.

When an individual makes an entry into the provided field for the name and address, employer and occupation we believe the supplied information represents the response the contributor wished to display on the public record. The RNC does not change or interpret the responses. We report the information as it is supplied to us.

Regarding PAC contributions to an affiliated joint fundraising committee, we have amended our report to correctly report these contributions. Our original report mistakenly identified PAC contributions to have been received by our affiliated joint fundraising partner when they were not. The correct list of PAC contributions was mistaken for the list that got reported. We have amended our reports to disclose both lists of PAC contributions appropriately and identified the contributions received from our joint fundraising effort.

I trust this response will meet your requirements, however please feel free to contact me if you have any remaining questions.

Sincerely,

Pat Huyck
Director of Accounting
